

Inspired by Nature In the Studio

The School Age Campers examined the work of world renowned artist, Andy Goldsworthy. They discovered his nature inspired art, the patterns created and how natural materials can be used expressively by artist. The children were given a wide variety of nature materials to design with. Once they had the arrangement organized to their individual liking they used glue to affix the materials to a circular substrate. The materials used included glass, rock, wood, shell, paper, and glue.

Making Sculpture Using Painted Blocks and Found Objects In the Studio

The students were offered a variety of painted unit blocks, colored tape, found objects and tacky glue to build permanent sculptures. We talked briefly about building structures, balance, weight, and height. The children were encouraged to use the materials available in anyway they could think of. The imaginative and unexpected solutions generated a lively exchange of ideas. The children enjoyed making sculptures and they are proud of their creations!
